DETAILED ACTION

1. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.
2. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 06 May 2004 has been entered.

Response to Amendment

3. The filing of 06 May 2004 was entered to the following effect:
  - Claims 16 and 18 were cancelled and the rejections withdrawn as moot.
  - Claims 1, 18, 15 and 17 were changed as indicated and examined on the merits.

Specification

4. The specification is objected to as failing to provide proper antecedent basis for the claimed subject matter. See 37 CFR 1.75(d)(1) and MPEP § 608.01(o).
Correction of the following is required:

Art Unit: 2654

- Claims 1 and 8 stipulate the feature “free of logging on”, which is not specified in the disclosure.
- Claims 1 and 8 stipulate the feature “free of intermediate transfer of data”, which is not specified in the disclosure.

Claim Objections

5. Claims 1, 8, 15 and 17 are objected to because of the following informalities:

- Claims 1 and 8 contain the negative term “free of” which suggests that an element is being subtracted. This is improper, and should be corrected by redrafting the claim, or the earlier claim being limited.
- Claims 15 and 17 should have the word “said” inserted before the word(s) “another” (last lines of the claims).

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Stimson et al & Gorog

7. Claims 1 and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Stimson et al (U.S. Patent 5,577,109 A) in view of Gorog (U.S. Patent 4,947,028 A).

8. Regarding claims 1 and 8 as understood by the Examiner, Stimson et al, with the invention for a pre-paid card system and method, reads on the claim for maintaining accounting data as follows:

- Stimson et al read on the step of (a) providing a database for storing desired accounting data (column 2 lines 25-29 – see column 5 line 49);
- Stimson et al read on the step of (b) using an automated voice interface to the database over a communication line, prompting a user to enter accounting data by speaking into a phone instead of keyboarding (column 4 line 57) and in a manner free of the user logging onto a global network and free of intermediate transfer of data by the user, the voice interface receiving audible signals indicative of words spoken by the user into the phone in response to said prompting (column 5 lines 43-64, where no mention is made of either logging on or intermediate data transfer);
- Stimson et al read on the feature where said prompting includes at least one of
  - (i) initiating a first call to the user,
  - (ii) asking the user to confirm information and

- (iii) prompting for information one data point at a time such that the step of prompting provides an exchange of information between the user and the database (see column 5 lines 48, 55, column 6 lines 14-16, etc.);
- Stimson et al read on the step of (c) obtaining from the received audible signals certain accounting data corresponding to the words spoken by the user into the phone (column 5 line 48 – see column 4 lines 57-64);
  - Stimson et al does not mention storing accounting data. Gorog, with the invention for automated order and payment, reads on the step of (d) storing the obtained certain accounting data in the database (column 2 lines 54-55 – see column 3 lines 45-62). It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art of speech signal processing at the time of the invention to apply the method/teachings of Gorog to the device/method of Stimson et al so as to allow individuals with visual and mobility disabilities, to place orders, pay for and receive merchandise.
  - Stimson et al read on the step of (e) serving an individually targeted message to the user through the phone over the communication line (column 5 lines 60-64).
9. Regarding claims 2 and 9; the claims are set forth with the same limits as claims 1 and 8, respectively. Stimson et al reads on the feature that the communication line is a wireless or land telephone network (column 2 lines 41-42).

Art Unit: 2654

10. Regarding claims 3 and 10; the claims are set forth with the same limits as claims 1 and 8, respectively. Stimson et al reads on the feature that the automated voice interface is computer implemented, (column 2 lines 41-42).

Stimson et al, Gorog & Skinner et al

11. Claims 4-6 and 11-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Stimson et al in view of Gorog and further in view of Skinner et al (U.S. Patent 6,185,514 B1).

12. Regarding claims 4 and 11; the claims are set forth with the same limits as claims 1 and 8, respectively. While Stimson et al provides the ability to review data to merchants, neither Stimson et al nor Gorog stipulate peer review by users. Skinner et al (column 4 lines 58-63) reads on the feature of automatically providing accounting data stored in the database to another user. It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art of speech signal processing at the time of the invention to apply the method/teachings of Skinner et al to the device/method of Stimson et al & Gorog to provide information to other using individuals for review, approval and accounting.

13. Regarding claims 5 and 12; the claims are set forth with the same limits as claims 4 and 11, respectively. Where Stimson et al discloses providing financial data to a merchant, Stimson et al & Gorog do not clearly indicate that this is automatic.

Art Unit: 2654

Skinner et al (column 4 lines 58-63) read on the feature that the step of automatically providing includes providing the accounting data as a function of predefined rules. It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art of speech signal processing at the time of the invention to apply the method/teachings of Skinner et al to the device/method of Stimson et al & Gorog to restrict access to authorized individuals.

14. Regarding claims 6 and 13; the claims are set forth with the same limits as claims 1 and 8, respectively. Stimson et al & Gorog do not include workflow tracking. Skinner et al reads on the feature that desired accounting data includes length of time (as in column 5 line 8), dates (column 13 line 12), project identifier (column 5 line 18), type of expense (column 20 lines 4-5), and that the data base stores desired accounting data in corresponding data fields (1706 in figure 17). It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art of speech signal processing at the time of the invention to apply the method/teachings of Skinner et al to the device/method of Stimson et al & Gorog to deduce the time of an operator from recorded equipment use.

Stimson et al, Gorog & Sprague et al

15. Claims 7 and 14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Stimson et al in view of Gorog and further in view of Sprague et al<sup>575</sup> (U.S. Patent 5,247,575 A).

Art Unit: 2654

16. Regarding claims 7 and 14; the claims are set forth with the same limits as claims 1 and 8, respectively. Stimson et al & Gorog do not mention providing reports remotely. Sprague et al<sup>575</sup> (column 18 lines 12-15) provides the support for the capability (column 18 lines 49-50) that reads on the feature of retrieving accounting data from the database using the automated voice interface (of column 10 line 38). It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art of speech signal processing at the time of the invention to apply the method/teachings of Sprague et al<sup>575</sup> to the device/method of Stimson et al & Gorog that would provide management status on a timely basis by eliminating the delay for scheduled paper report delivery.

Stimson et al, Gorog & Gomyo et al

17. Claims 15 and 17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Stimson et al in view of Gorog and further in view of Gomyo et al (U.S. Patent 5,930,772 A).

18. Regarding claims 15 and 17; the claims are set forth with the same limits as claims 1 and 8, respectively. Stimson et al & Gorog does not speak to foreign language translation. Gomyo et al (column 12 line 65 to column 13 line 3) reads on the feature of translating between languages. It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art of speech signal processing at the time of the invention to apply the method/teachings of Gomyo et al to the device/method of Skinner et al to conserve space by not storing the same data redundantly, for a number of languages.
